

Sue Macmillan

Director of Coaching Mastery Coach Training Programme, Facilitator and Coach

Sue is an experienced executive coach and leadership facilitator. She helps individuals, teams and organisations develop their own self-awareness, leadership and management skills and to remain agile and resilient in our ever-changing VUCA world.

Clients describe her warmth, curiosity and connection and her ability to hold the tension between support and challenge.

Sue is an Association for Coaching accredited narrative coach with over 500 hours of 1:1 coaching experience. She holds the coaching space with empathy, listens and challenges to help her coachees reach their outcomes.

She has successfully designed and run leadership workshops and programmes across sectors most recently in the NHS, NATO, Cazoo, DHU, Healthcare and EN.

At Ambito Sue runs the flagship accredited Coaching Mastery Diploma programme. She specialises in resilience, communication skills and narrative. With a background in the health sector, Sue has a Masters in Human Rights and Development and is an NLP and Time to Think practitioner. She uses a range of individual and team psychometrics SDI 2.0, VoicePrint and Firo B.
